J. W. BENNETT,
S. S. NORTHROP,
WM. H. TRIPP,
Committee.

It has been demonstrated that the sprightly little Emma Abbott can speculate as well as sing, and by the former has made $200,000 during the past year.

From the Republican-Scoutlet: "Mr. Dorsey's friends may insist that Dorsey was the trusted friend, companion, and advisor of General Garfield; but Dorsey's letters show that Garfield treated his advice with contempt."

Mrs. John Brown, the widow of the Harper's Ferry martyr, is in Chicago, and will attend the meeting of the John Brown Monument Association, which meets in that city on Wednesday. She is 60 years old and very sprightly.

The Prohibitionists of the Third Congressional District of Ohio have very wisely concluded that the best way to aid the temperance cause is to fight the Democratic party, and will therefore not run a candidate for Congress, but will support the Republican nominee.

The Oshkosh Times is engaged in condemning and slurring every Republican Congressman who voted for the River and Harbor bill, especially Mr. Williams, of this district, but it hasn't a single word of rebuke for any of the Democrats who are as deep in the mud as the Republicans are in the mire. But then, what can we expect from a Democratic paper anyhow?

Mrs. Della Vincent, who was the wife of A. E. Foote, now serving a term of five years in the penitentiary for forgery, was married at La Crosse on Monday to Frank Seymour, a railway conductor. When Foote, who was a partner of "Briek" Pomerooy in the La Crosse Democrat, was convicted, his wife got a divorce. She is the daughter of a wealthy merchant of La Crosse.

The man who had national notoriety thrust upon him by the drawing pencil of Thomas Nast, during the Presidential campaign of 1872, when he was made simply a tag to the coat-tail of Horace Greeley, has come out from Prohibition in Missouri. Ex-Governor B. Gratz Brown has been on many sides in our politics, and his latest is about the best he ever reached, except when he leaned toward the Republican party.

Last Friday a Mrs. G. C. Leidy, of Philadelphia, was buried, and this item is found in an account of the funeral: "The coffin was borne by the six adult sons of the dead woman. The youngest of the sons was 21, and the eldest 39 years old. Mrs. Leidy's age was 60 years. The spectacle of the six brothers bearing the body of their mother to the grave profoundly touched those who witnessed it."

Miss Mary Walker, who is sometimes called doctor, has at last met with a sort of triumph—a small one to be sure, but for her proud one. Commissioner of Pensions Dudley has given her a clerkship in his bureau without the conditions imposed by a former Secretary of the Treasury, that she should do the regulation office of woman. She has been working hard for years for some recognition at the hands of the government, and even a modest clerkship will make her feel that her velvet pantaloons and jacket have not been worn in vain.

Closely watching the signs of the times, the distillers who recently held a meeting in Chicago, are convinced that it would be better for their business if law and order were regarded on Sunday, and a higher license fixed for saloons. They are observing public sentiment and can read the handwriting on the wall, and they desire to save their business from wreck and ruin if possible. They disagree with the brewers, the latter wanting a low license and free open air concerts and beer garden festivities on Sunday. The distillers are becoming wiser, and the brewers blinder to their own interests.

The Republicans of Maine are doing some splendid work this campaign, and there are the brightest prospects that the Republicans will carry the State. The Republican party there is thoroughly organized, hopeful and harmonious, and beside that has a strong State and Congressional ticket in the field. The Democrats are again a partnership with some of the worst political element in that State, and this with a separate Greenback ticket in the field, will give the Republicans a decided advantage. They have had turbulent times in Maine in regard to State matters ever since the Republicans lost the State, and the people are getting tired of it. It is estimated that there will be 70,000 Republican votes cast, 63,000 Fusion, and only 4,500 for the Solon Chase Greenbackers.

The Janesville Gazette predicts the defeat of George C. Hazleton for Congress at the polls, though it has little doubt that Senators Sawyer and Cameron and the railways can secure his nomination. —Evening Wisconsin.

The Evening Wisconsin, which seldom makes a mistake in publishing the opinions of the State press, happens to be wrong in this instance. All that the Gazette has said in regard to Mr. Hazleton's re-nomination and election was said last Friday in these words: "It is more than probable that Mr. Hazleton will receive the nomination, and in that case the temperance people will nominate a temperance man, and there are those who predict that with the Prohibition vote against him, the Farmers' Alliance to oppose him, and a strong Democrat in the field, he would be defeated. Mr. Hazleton has, unfortunately, thrown his sympathies with some of the great corporations as against the agricultural interests, and this untimely step may greatly reduce his vote."

Next Monday evening—August 28—there will take place in Chicago one of the most interesting dramatic events ever known in the history of that city. For more than a year that date has been fixed for the first appearance of Miss Margaret Mather, as Juliet, and McKivier's will be the scene of the triumph which will doubtless be won on that night. Miss Mather is one of the best advertised young ladies in the United States. The metropolitan press of every city has extolled her praise, and at no time and at no place has there been a discord. Miss Mather seems to be a child of genius. She is not more than twenty now, was not born rich, has not been finely educated, and has not won any triumphs on the histrionic stage. But she has given dramatic readings in all the chief cities and before the brightest critics in this country, and in every case criticism was disarmed, and from one and all came words of praise more lavished, earnest, and well-deserved, than have been bestowed upon any other young dramatic reader in the United States. Miss Mather begins a two weeks' engagement at McKivier's next Monday, under the management of Mr. J. M. Hill, who has engaged her for six years. He is one of the most enterprising and skillful managers we have in this country. He made Den, Thompson famous and rich, and it will be hoped that his success with Mather will be as brilliant as her genius and his courage and enterprise deserve.

The "Independent" press and the Democratic press are trying to make the country believe that the Republican Congressional Committee is contributing funds toward the election of ex-Rebel Chalmers, of Mississippi. The Philadelphia Times says:

Colonel Henderson, secretary of the Congressional committee, denies that any money has been sent to Chalmers, of Mississippi, to assist in his election to Congress. Mr. Henderson tells only half the truth, however. It is true, probably, that the money has not been paid by Henderson direct to Chalmers. Chairman Hubbard knows a trick worth two of that. The arrangement was understood to have been made by the extremely smart Secretary of the Navy, William E. Chandler, and Mr. Chalmers was promised the money before he left Washington. Mr. Henderson can easily lay his hand on his heart and affirm that he has sent no money to Chalmers when an outcry is raised against the outrage, but Jay Hubbard knows it has gone or is going to him through the roundabout channel which the wily Naval Secretary uses fit to employ.

The truth of the matter is, the candidacy of Chalmers has not been endorsed by the Republican Congressional Committee. General Chalmers is running for Congress on an independent ticket, the Bourbon Democracy being opposed to him. Some of the Republicans in the "Shoestring" district who are in favor of the Independent movement, thought it would be best to indorse the candidacy of Chalmers; but the Republican Committee at Washington will not promise to contribute any funds toward his election unless his speeches on the stump are satisfactory to the Committee. So far no aid has been sent, and the canvass has not progressed far enough to show what kind of an Independent the hero of the Fort Pillow massacre will make. It may be well to say here that Chalmers' candidacy is not endorsed by all the leading Republicans of Mississippi. Many of them look upon the ex-rebel's motives and change of political opinion with much suspicion, and they have accordingly written Chairman Enbrell and Secretary Henderson to that effect. If the Republicans of Mississippi want to retain their honor they don't want to attach themselves to the political coat-tail of General Chalmers.

THE REPUBLIC SAFE.

Special to the Gazette.
PHILADELPHIA, Aug. 22.—The steamer Republic, the fate of which caused so much anxiety to the friends of 700 excursionists on board, was discovered this morning anchored off Wilmington Creek. A tug was along side of her. She broke the cross-heads of the engine and was compelled to anchor. The passengers were brought here this forenoon.

THE WAR IN EGYPT.

LONDON, Aug. 22.—The French papers comment unfavorably on the closing of the Suez Canal. Germany has sent three war vessels to Beyrout. Strict censorship of telegrams is enforced at Port Said. Another regiment and battery has sailed from Bombay.

JUDGE CATE INTERVIEWED.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 21.—Judge George W. Cate, of Stevens Point, a representative from Wisconsin in the Forty-fourth Congress, arrived in Washington this evening from New York. His business here is with the department and is of a private character. In a talk upon political matters in the Ninth Wisconsin District he said the contest to capture the delegates to the nomination convention was getting to be warm and exciting. He does not think Pound stands much of a show as a dark horse candidate. The nomination, he said, lies between Stevenson, of Minnesota, Webb, of Grand Rapids, and Browne, of Waupun, the latter being a prominent attorney. Browne is the best man of the three, and would be elected beyond a doubt if nominated by the Republicans. He is not a strong man in a political sense; he is not popular with the class that run the campaign. He is a man of good deal like Col. Vilas, of Madison, one who has ability and culture, and who takes pride in his respectability. These are very much to his (Browne's) credit, but not very effective in securing delegates for the coming convention. I think Stevenson will get the nomination. He has plenty of money and will use it. Webb would be the weakest man the Republicans could put up. If they nominate him the dissatisfaction would be so great that we could take Judge Park and elect him. Judge Park, although a Democrat, presides in a circuit composed of counties giving heavy Republican majorities, and if Webb is nominated I think we can elect Judge Park. The only thing against him is his advanced age. He is very popular with all parties."

UNCLE SAM'S PURSE.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 21.—The receipts of the treasury are daily more than ever known before within the memory of the officials of the department. The amount averages a million and one-half every day, and were it not that the special appropriations made by Congress for private claims, deficiencies, etc., are pouring in, the debt reduction for the month would be, perhaps, the largest in the history of the past twenty years. The receipts for the month will amount to nearly $50,000,000 beyond doubt.

A FRIGHTFUL AFFAIR.

MOUNT PULASKI, Ill., Aug. 21.—The Inter Ocean special this morning related the first known facts of the dreadful triple murder occurring near this place. Charles McMahon, a farmer, aged 45, a bachelor, living five miles from this place and keeping bachelor's hall, had two hired men, Bob Matheny and John Carlock, the former aged 21, hailing from Hazel Dell, Crawford county, the latter aged 17, and from Fairfield, Ill. All three were last seen alive stacking grain last Thursday in the field. Being missed the neighbors on Sunday joined in the search. Attracted by a dreadful smell they entered a patch of high weeds, in a slough a half mile from the house and there found the petrifying body of McMahon, his throat cut from ear to ear, his head tied up in a cloth, and his arms and legs bound with twine secured by twine-binding machines. His head was almost cut off from the body. Robbery being suspected, search of the house was instituted, and a made bed was found in the room occupied by the hired men. At first it was supposed that the hired men had robbed McMahon, and parties began to scour the country for them, when another appalling discovery was made. The bodies of both hired men were found in a slough adjacent to the house in the same condition as that of McMahon, their feet being tied together so that they could move them ten inches only. Both of their heads were tied up as it is to blindfold them. In fact, they were surprised in bed, gagged, tied, and led to the slough, and slaughtered like cattle; that after this the murderers went back for McMahon, and treated him in the same manner. No money could be found about the house, and some was known to be there. The theory exists that the murder was committed by a tramp named "Jack" who had been hanging about Pulaski for some three or four years, and who quarreled with McMahon about a year ago.

The bodies were buried to-day, and the coroner's inquest will be held Wednesday. Detectives have been put to work, and if the parties are found they will be stretched to the first tree that comes handy. The people are fearfully excited over the matter. McMahon was wealthy and highly respected. The discovery of their bodies was made by a neighbor by the name of Long, who suspected there was something wrong from not seeing any of the men around.

MURDERED AND ROBBED.

MILWAUKEE, Wis., Aug. 21.—Mrs. Sherman and Beebe, while botanizing three miles south of this city yesterday, found the body of a man in the bushes several rods from the road. The body was badly decomposed. The pantoon pockets were turned inside out. It is supposed the man was robbed and murdered.

Washington Red Tape.

There is annually issued by the departments at Washington about 300 miles of red tape. If this were stretched out in a straight line it would reach from Washington to New Haven, Ct., on the north, or from Washington to Wilmington, N. C., on the south. Using Washington as a pivotal point, and moving the tape around, the ends would touch the great lakes and pass through the States of Connecticut, New York, Pennsylvania, Ohio, Kentucky, Tennessee and North Carolina. Or, to make another illustration, from the Interior Department to the Navy Department is about one-half a mile. The tape would go around these departments 300 times, and bind them closer and more securely than ever Indian and tar were bound before. To go into details: The Treasury Department alone requires 288,000 yards of red tape, and is closely followed by the Interior Department with 129,600 yards. Following come the Navy, with 49,500 yards; the State, with 28,800 yards; the War, with 14,400 yards, and last, the Postoffice with 12,900 yards. —Washington Post.

Automatic Counting of Letters.

Two officials of the London Post-office have invented and patented a method of automatically registering the number of letters stamped. The counting may be done by mechanical or by electrical means. In the first case a small counter similar to an engine counter, is placed in the head or hand of the hand stamp, and each time the stamper presses upon a letter it is registered on the counter. At the close of the day the stamp is opened, the number of letters stamped read off and registered, and the counter set ready for the next day's work. In the second case, two methods have been devised for electrically effecting the object. In one case the striking of the inkling pad causes electrical contact to be made, which transmits a current to a counter similar to that of a gas meter, and so registers every letter stamped. The other method is similar in principle, but a lever stamp is employed.

The Assessor's Alternative.

An Irish lady called on a Brooklyn Assessor to talk with him regarding taxes. She had heretofore, by keeping a flock of geese and pasturing them upon the public commons, been able to clear from the sale of their eggs and fatness money enough in the course of a year to pay her taxes. The enforcement of the new ordinance would compel her to sell the geese.

"An' now, Mr. Committ," says she, "what is it I am to do? You've taken away my geese an' I can't pay me taxes. It's a sorry fix I'm in, so it is. I'll tell ye, sorr, what I'll do. You take the geese an' I kape the taxes, or I'll kape the geese an' you take the taxes. The bargain is fair, so it is. Is it agreed ye are?"

Civil-Service Reform in India.
The quaint answers given at competitive examinations are not the least amusing stories of this rather dull age. This I think is as good as any of the kind. A Hindoo of half-caste was asked who was Julius Caesar. "The first Roman Catholic Bishop of India," he replied, "who introduced Christianity into England." —London World.

Briefers.

A little rain just now would prove a welcome visitor.

Some of the apples being brought into town look tempting and fine.

Some desirable improvements are being made in the sidewalks about town.

Candidates are beginning to stir themselves, and are industriously at work, making calls.

Mrs. Alexander J. Leland and Miss Mattie Soper, of Rockford, are visiting Mr. and Mrs. J. A. Leland.

Prof. C. G. Titcomb and his brother Ed Titcomb, left this morning for Lake Delavan, where they will spend a week.

The only league game of ball played yesterday was between Chicago and Troy at Troy. Chicago won by a score of 12 to 3.

What is the matter with the dogs—are they becoming better natured? There has not been a noteworthy street fight for a fortnight.

The discordant shout of r-r-r-rs, old iron-copper, enlivened the streets today. The itinerant peddler seemed to scoop in a good lot of refuse.

The infant daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Albert Gramke, who died yesterday, was buried today, a number of sorrowing friends attending the services.

Adam Smith, who charges that How and Venable robbed him of $30 at a dance in Beloit, went to the suburbs this morning to swear out a warrant against him.

The refusal to sell excursion tickets to any but Knights to the K. P. convention at Detroit, has disappointed a number of gentlemen and ladies here, who proposed to attend.

New coats are being readily disposed of at 42 and 43 cents. To-day's dispatches received by Mr. A. L. Brown give 401 car loads as the Chicago receipts for today up to 11 o'clock.

John Dillon and the members of the State's Attorney Combination arrived today, and are stopping at the Myers House. The Opera House will doubtless be well filled to-night to greet the performers.

Whiteley's "Hidden Hand" at the Opera House to-morrow night, will be presented in as fine a manner as the play is susceptible of, and the characters will be impersonated by a company of talented people.

The new building being put up by Mr. Peter Myers, on Milwaukee street bridge, is progressing rapidly and will soon be completed. This like all the other buildings erected by Mr. Myers, will be a fine sample of his substantial public enterprise.

The Concordia picnic at Wheeler's Grove to-day is being well attended. The Concordia Society marched to the grounds at 1 o'clock, headed by the Bower City Band. The weather, though somewhat warm, is delightful for outdoor amusement in the shade, and the promoters will have a glorious time. The pleasures of the day will be supplemented by a dance to-night.

Mr. S. H. Slaymaker, of the town of Turtle, member of the Board of Supervisors, is in the city to-day, looking after the interests of the county asylum for the insane at Johnson.

A new engine has been purchased for the asylum, and Mr. Slaymaker is here to superintend its transportation to its destination. He reports everything as being in an improved condition at the asylum.

Diet and Drinks in Holland.

To my English friends, accustomed as I am to plenty of fresh meat, a Dutch diet seems so insufficient on which to conduct the business of life, in fact, bread and butter and sweets, and tea or coffee four times a day, meat and wine but once. As to the popular belief that the Dutch are a hard-drinking, schnapps-taking nation, it is unfounded. You see very little drunkenness among the poor; they are, in truth, too poor for it, and I never met any one who even knew the use of schnapps. Certainly the men of the poorer classes do not supplement their poor diet by strong drinks. A glass or two of cheap Rhine wine at dinner is all they take, and sometimes at night a little brandy or Geneva. There may be some Mythen or Dunks, and on festive occasions, as at kermes or fairs, there may be revelry, but as a rule the people are temperate. I may, in conclusion, mention that on festive days they make what is called avokaat, and is, in fact, a thin custard, strongly flavored with brandy. It is made in a large bowl and ladled out into the liqueur-glasses, in which it is served to all who attend the afternoon reception of the person whose festive day it is. The future felicitations of the holder of the reception is wished before drinking. A festive day may be a birthday, betrothal, christening, copper, silver or golden wedding; or to celebrate the fact that a gentleman has been a certain number of years in office—any appointment—any professor, clergyman, or indeed any other prominent official position.—Letter to the Hour.

The Infant's Dreams.

In her book on Infant's Dreams, the Princess Della Rocca relates the following anecdote of the poet: One hot summer afternoon (no mention is made of his age) had been working in his room very assiduously. It was a sultry day and he laid down his pen. Lost in thought he approached the window and looked out. Suddenly the idea struck him to climb on the ledge and to stretch himself lengthwise on the narrow stone. Overcome by the heat he fell asleep. Passers by, horrified, ran to inform his mother. Mattresses and pillows were hastily placed in the street below the window, momentarily the child was expected to fall. To wake him seemed hazardous. The inmates of the house feared to enter the room lest the noise of the cracking door should cause him to move. Below the horror-struck spectators watched him, the Roman Catholics in the lower world, and the mother, scarcely able to control herself, takes off her shoes, creeps up the stairs, cautiously opens the door, steals to the window—the crowd below holding its breath—and successfully draws the boy inside the window. Below the an evening of music.

The music conducted by Prof. C. G. Titcomb at Cannon's hall last night, was exceptionally fine for entertainments of this character, where none but amateur talent appeared. The success it achieved was a most complimentary recognition of the Professor's worth as a music teacher, and a gratifying tribute to the attainments of his young lady pupils. The hall was filled to its utmost capacity, and many were compelled to stand, an annoyance graciously endured throughout. The programme was somewhat lengthy, but of such merit that uneasiness was an unknown quantity in the composition of the audience.

Though most of the numbers were piano performances, the selections were sufficiently attractive to obviate monotonous effects, and the occasional vocal selections gave a very agreeable temper to the whole.

Every number was well rendered, and in two or three instances were of sufficient excellence to merit more than a passing notice. The execution in all was good, and with a few the technique and a good conception of sensitiveness of expression, commended the efforts as giving promise of talent susceptible to a fine degree of cultivation.

The initial number, Wollenhaup's Grand Marche de Concert, with eight hands, rendered by Misses Churel, Nelson, Evenson, and Roething. The Professor himself entertained in a grand duet, on two pianos, Miss Pond accompanying.

Misses Clara Churel, Ada Pond, Edith Morris, Nettie Nelson, Lillie Rosenblatt, and indeed everyone, did excellently. Miss Church particularly evidenced a precocious talent, already well developed.

In addition to those named, the following young ladies distinguished themselves: Misses Grace Linsley, Nellie Smith, Josie Evenson, Lisle and Mattie Snell, Myrtle Gail, Annie Sillman and Amelia Roething.

The Orphans Club gave two very acceptable choruses, adding fresh laurels to those already deservedly earned. Indeed they did somewhat better than heretofore.

Mr. Ben H. Groves, in two songs, the second an encore, was rapturously applauded. Mr. Groves has a rich basso, which though bordering on the baritone, yet has considerable profundity in the lower notes, which in the upper bars is pleasingly mellowed.

The evening's entertainment was heartily enjoyed, and Prof. Titcomb deserves thanks for his endeavors to afford an agreeable hour.

Johnstown Center.

Farming has been lively business for a few weeks past, and most of the grain is stacked and in good condition. Some are threshing from the stack. Mr. Horace Cunningham last week threshed with his steam thrasher an average of 1,275 bushels per each day of the week, some days threshing over 1,800 bushels. He knows how to do it.

School opened to-day with a good attendance. C. S. Groveshank teacher. Miss Minnie Gifford is to take the school at Johnson for this term.

The tobacco crop is doing pretty well and some will commence shedding this week. Corn is growing rapidly this warm weather and looks as though we were going to get a fair crop in spite of the crop.

Mr. Jonathan Tellows is buying all the good butter he can get, and farmers' wives will find his store a good place to dispose of their surplus.

Every one compliments the new fence in front of the school grounds, and everything about the premises show that we have an efficient teacher in Messrs. Johnson, Pember and Sheridan.

Quite a number of our young folks are preparing to attend school at Milton this term.
